CONN BROTHERS.

Lancaster, Ky.

Every autoist demands the best grade of gasoline he can get at the lowest market price. He demands and expects when he stops at a garage "gas" that is free from dirt or water. That is the reason the average motorist likes to buy his engine fuel where he knows he'll get the right kind.

This garage sells only the best grade of gasoline. It gives full measure. The price charged is as low as possible.

Our gasoline will run your car farther and cost you less in the end. Test it.

SMALL FARM OR LOTS

FOR SALE.

I have sixteen acres of land, fronting on pike, within six miles of 3 county seats, close to school and churches, which I will sell as a whole or in lots of two acres or more.

Also 3 1/2 acres, fronting on pike, has spring of everlasting water. Possession at once. Will sell on easy terms. G. B. Swinebroad, Lancaster, Ky.

PIE SUPPER.

There will be a pie supper at the West Point school house next Friday night. Everyone is cordially invited and a guarantee is assured that there will be pies for all.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

County Clerk Hamilton issued marriage licenses to two couples last Monday. Mr. B. Hounshell to Miss Nancy Hounshell and Mr. N. E. Prewitt to Miss Mary J. Prewitt.

COURT DAY ATTRACTIONS.

A patent medicine vender, with a negro clog dancer, a wagon load of watermelons, bushels and bushels of chestnuts, a few loads of sorghum molasses and red apples, entertained most of the crowd here last Monday.

TRAIN DISCONTINUED.

The train over the Southern Railway which has been running from Onedia, Tenn. to Lexington has been discontinued, having made the last run Sunday. It will no longer run between Onedia and Somerset as was formerly the case.

SLIGHT WRECK.

The delivery wagon of Davidson & Doty, with Riley Herring at the steering wheel, was struck by the L. & N. train at the Richmond street crossing last Saturday morning and the rear wheel taken off. It was a narrow escape for Riley, who will probably be more careful in the future.

BURN YOUR LEAVES.

We are forcibly reminded that "the melancholy days are come" by the amount of leaves piled indiscriminately about.

If "fathers pride and mother's joy" will direct half the energy he displays in a game of foot ball to raking up the aforesaid leaves and burning or otherwise destroying them, it would take about twenty-four hours to make the lawns about town present a marked difference in their appearance.

THE WORST EVER.

An editor approached St. Peter at the Golden Gate and handing him a long list of delinquent subscribers said: "Look this list over and see if any of these fellows have sneaked through the pearly gates." "No," said St. Peter, "there are none of them inside, but a fellow slipped through here the other day who took the paper 2 years without paying for it and then had the postmaster mark it 'refused.' He shall be expelled when found, for he is worse than the delinquent subscriber and Heaven is not his home."

WILLS PROBATED.

Two wills were probated in the County Court here Monday. By the will of the late William McKeekie, one third of his property, both real, personal and mixed is left to his wife, Lydia Bell McKeekie, during her natural life. Should the oldest son remain with the family until the youngest child is of age he is to have $1,000, at which time the estate is to be divided equally. Mrs. McKeekie is made executor without bond. By the will of Mr. Jerome Tinsley his entire estate is left to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ida Tinsley, to do with as she pleases. She was appointed administratrix, with the will annexed.

AMONG OUR SICK.

Mrs. Lewis Walker who has been quite ill for several days is reported better and her friends are hoping for her speedy recovery.

Mr. Rufus Moss, whose life was in a balance so long is also reported as showing signs of improvement with chances of a complete recovery. Mr. Moss was kicked by a mule about three weeks ago and since then has been suffering from internal bleeding. He is still at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. J. M. Acton.

Mr. George Smith Jr. has been confined to his home for a week, suffering intense pain from his eyes.

Mr. John Walter has had a relapse in the last few days and last night was reported much worse, and his condition at times is very precarious.

SOME PUMPKIN, THIS.

Mr. Cleo Ray, who lives in the Buckeye section of the county seems to be the champion pumpkin raiser of the county. We have one in our office that tips the beam at 85 pounds, that was raised by this progressive young farmer. If anyone can beat it let him bring it in and we will give him a years subscription to the Record, otherwise Mr. Ray gets the plum. So much interest is being manifested in our "Kershaw" show we have decided to give a years subscription to the largest vegetable of that variety. Quite a number have intimated that they have larger ones at home than we have on exhibition, but we have been unable to see them. Bring them in boys. The turnip exhibit is still creating interest and Mr. Jephtha Onstott has the honor so far with one that weighs 5 pounds. Can you beat it? Sam Hutchinson is the champion beet raiser and has brought in one that is the largest we have ever seen of any variety. So far we have been unable to get it on the scales.

DO NOT EXPECT IT.

The day should not be far distant when "cards of thanks" will be a thing of the past. When death enters a home, neighbors never fail to do all in their power to place a silver lining back of the dark cloud, and they do not expect or desire any thanks through the public press.

RUBLE FARM SELLS.

The farm of George and Kate Ruble, containing 533 acres, and located in the lower end of the county, was sold by the Master Commissioner last Monday, to J. E. Robinson, for $18,625. Mr. J. H. Baughman was the largest creditor, he having a mortgage on the property for $14,000.

BUYING HORSES.

Mr. W. Turner Wilmore was in Lancaster Monday buying horses for the French and English armies. It is understood that these governments expect to buy about twenty thousand horses in Central Kentucky at once and persons having a horse of this character to sell should let it be known. Mr. W. B. Burton is also buying horses of this type and bought quite a number here Monday and a car load at Danville last Tuesday. The horses are averaging about $125 each.

TAKE YOUR COUNTY PAPER.

If there is any thing that has the tendency to rub the hair the wrong way with an editor more than anything else, it is to publish a long obituary notice about some old, prominent citizen, who never had the manhood to take his county paper.

We frequently put in such notices at the request of relatives and friends, but it goes against the grain to eulogize a man to the skies who was too stingy to support his home paper. A three line notice is all they deserve.

Did you ever pause just a moment and think that your editor, whoever he may be, will write your obituary some day?

PUMPKIN PIES BRING

PROFITABLE PRICES.

A pie supper conducted at the Union Sunday school building at Hyattsville last Friday evening proved very profitable indeed, the handsome sum of $40. having been realized from their sale.

The boys vying with each other to see that his best girl's pie brought the largest figure. Miss Willie Mason Gastineau, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gastineau, was voted the prettiest girl at the supper and was awarded a large box of candy.

The highest price paid for a single pie was $2.60 and was knocked off to Mr. Robert Meadows, the public will have to guess who baked the pie. Mr. Harry Ware was one of the contending bidders, but as Harry's tastes seem to be for "Ham" he failed to get the coveted pie.

Don't fail to vote for the Bond Issue, Tuesday.

ALFALFA GROWING

IN GARRARD COUNTY

No Longer An Experiment.

The growing of alfalfa in this section of Kentucky has ceased to be an experiment, and farmers who made the attempt some years ago have met with success far beyond their fondest expectations, and have succeeded in establishing beyond doubt the fact that this very useful farm product can be raised successfully in this section of Kentucky.

The farmers as yet have confined their efforts to a few acres, realizing that their attempts were experiments, but now that success has crowned their efforts, they will cultivate the splendid crop upon a much larger scale.

The small or experimental fields have grown more and more numerous as the farmers realized that their neighbors were making four cuttings each season and that each cutting was yielding a ton of splendid hay to each acre planted.

The pioneer alfalfa grower of this county is Mr. Thomas Rankin, who has met with splendid success and this year has eight acres. Mr. J. A. Robinson has followed Mr. Rankin's example with 15 acres, H. J. Tinsley 6 acres, S. E. Owsley 4 acres, Lee Rankin 5 acres, Dock Weaver 5 acres, W. C. Pettus 5 acres, J. H. Weaver 3 acres, J. E. Robinson 3 acres, Jas. Roberts 3 acres, A. P. Sloan 4 acres, J. M. Rankin 6 acres, J. I. Hamilton 6 acres, John Goggin 4 acres and many others. All of these gentlemen are highly pleased with their efforts, those who have the two year old crop harvesting six tons of splendid hay to the acre each season.

The new crop is appealing strongly to the progressive farmer, and there is little doubt but the next few years will see many acres of Garrard county soil biged to alfalfa.

Big sale every day next week at Moore's.

PREACHING AT PLEASANT HILL.

Rev. Bell the pastor of the Pleasant Grove church will conduct a Union service at the Pleasant Hill church next Sunday week. All are cordially invited.

PREACHING AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY.

A card from Rev. F. M. Tinder announces that he is having a splendid meeting at Sulphur Well and that H. C. Bell will preach at the Christian church next Sunday and at Hubble in the afternoon.

PUBLIC SPEAKING AT PAINT LICK AND BRYANTSVILLE.

Hon. W. R. Shackelford, of Richmond, and J. E. Robinson, will address the citizens of Paint Lick and vicinity in the interest of the Democratic party next Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Two good speakers will be assigned to speak at Bryantsville also on next Saturday afternoon.

Later, Judge Smith Hays, of Winchester and Representative J. R. Mount will be the speakers at the latter place.

TRAGIC DEATH BY GASOLINE EXPLOSION.

Miss Effie Skidmore, aged twenty years, met a horrible death at the home of Judge Lewis L. Walker in this city, where she had lived for several weeks, in attempting to start a fire from a can, as she thought was coal oil but proved to be gasoline. The unfortunate accident happened last Monday morning about 6:30 o'clock in the kitchen of Judge Walker's residence. There was an explosion and instantly she was enveloped in flames from head to foot and her clothing was in a solid blaze. In pain and distress she ran into the adjoining room occupied by Mrs. Epping, who is a aunt of Mrs. Walker, and in attempting to extinguish the flames, Mrs. Epping was seriously but not dangerously burned. Medical attention and the ministrations of kind friends and neighbors were without avail and relief came to the poor suffering body about midnight of that fateful day.

She is survived by her parents and sister, all of whom were at her bedside when the end came. Much sympathy is extended the family in their misfortune. The remains were taken to Waynesburg, in Lincoln county, where her parents reside, and were buried in the cemetery at that place yesterday.

LATEST NEWS FROM SEAT OF WAR.

All the efforts of the allied armies and the Germans are centered along the North Sea coast, where in that section the battle has been raging incessantly for several days. Paris reports a violent bombardment of Neuport by German guns.

The British officials declare that the situation is satisfactory and ground is being gained by the allies.

Another French steamer has been added to the list of those vessels blown by mines in the waters off the coast of France and Belgium. More than a score of persons were drowned.

The Russian official report describes a great battle which is in progress along a front of more than 50 miles, in which the Russians are declared to be winning victories.

The people of Belgium are in dire straits, many million of them facing starvation. The American Minister to Belgium says there is less than a two weeks supply of food in the cities.

All pending questions between the United States and Great Britain, over the seizure of American ships have been settled.

COURT DAY CROWD LARGE BUT NOT MUCH DOING.

A good crowd attended Court here Monday and quite a little trading was noticed among the live stock, about 300 mule colts on hand but only a few changed hands, by local buyers at prices ranging from $40 to $70.

Mr. Ross reports about 400 cattle at his pens, but not all sold. The demand not being as good as a month ago, however, quite a number went to different parties at prices ranging from $4 to 7 cents. Only a few however selling at the latter figures. No other stock at the pens.

Mr. W. B. Burton and S. T. Harbison of Lexington, bought 26 head of horses that averaged about $125 a head. These horses are being purchased for the English and French army and were shipped immediately to Lexington for inspection. Quite a number of horses remained unsold, the owners not being willing to take the price. There was absolutely no demand for aged mules and very few were offered.

CENTRAL RECORD

SIMPLY BREATHE IT

That's the Way You Use Hyomei, the Safe Catarrh Remedy.
The most pleasant, easiest, harmless, and the really sensible method for the cure of catarrh is Hyomei, which can be had from any drug store. Just put twenty drops of the liquid in the small inhaler that comes with every complete outfit—then breathe it. A few minutes' use almost instantly clears the head and stops that annoying sniffing.
When using Hyomei every particle of air that enters the breathing organs is charged with an antiseptic, healing balsam that destroys the catarrh germs stops the unclean discharges from the nose, relieves the irritation and quickly heals the sore and inflamed tissues. The first day's use of Hyomei will show a decided improvement no matter how distressing the trouble.
Catarrh, which usually begins with a neglected cold, often becomes a very serious ailment, so don't wait but start using Hyomei today—it is inexpensive and R. E. McKibben always sells it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.

WHY SUFFER ANY STOMACH DISTRESS

When Mi-o-na is a Quick and Effective Remedy.
If your stomach is continually kicking up a disturbance, causing distress after eating, heartburn, coated tongue, gas, sour taste of food, and you feel blue, irritable and nervous, you are suffering from indigestion and dyspepsia. It's needless for you to suffer, and now is the time to quickly stop the distress and regulate your upset stomach.
Simply get from R. E. McKibben or any drug store, some Mi-o-na tablets—a simple prescription that does more than give quick and lasting relief. Mi-o-na soothes the irritated lining of the stomach and stimulates the flow of the digestive juices so that what you eat is quickly converted into healthful nourishment, then you are well and strong, and no longer worry about troubles or have restless nights.
Do not allow indigestion to wreck your health and happiness but get some Mi-o-na tablets at once—they are cheap and harmless.

Messrs. J. L. Kennedy and R. G. Pettus sold the boxes, and while new hands at the business of auctioneering, should soon be experts in that line.
Mr. Morris Daugherty, 22, of the Stauley section, and Miss Addie Lunsford, 22, of Stanford, were joined in wedlock's golden bonds at the court house by Rev. Garland Singleton, on last Wednesday. Mr. Daugherty is an energetic, hard-working young man, while his bride is a very handsome and talented young lady, possessed of all the qualities of a thrifty housewife and worthy of the man of her choice. We congratulate the young folks and wish them all the joys of life.
A young hopeful, aged four years, who lives near here, is sure to follow the calling of farmer. The other day while looking through a stereoscope at views of scenery in the Holy Land he seemed deeply interested. His aunt, proud of the precocity of her nephew, was glad to "draw him out" as he enjoyed the views depicting Bible scenes. Looking at the last view, a picture of Jerusalem as seen from the Mount of Olives, when he saw a spotted cow grazing in the foreground and the shining dome of the temple just beyond a beaming smile covered his little face and he exclaimed, "Look, there's 'Old Daisy' and the silo." The child thought he had met up with old friends again.

Hallowe'en Entertainment

— AT —
Paint Lick Graded School
Saturday, Night, October 31st, 1914.

The initial entertainment of the school year, which together with its successors, is to be prepared for the delectation of the school's friends and patrons, and for the securing of funds urgently needed for improvements, will have for the Piece de Resistance, a play entitled, "The Haunted Gate", some seasonable songs; and one that isn't seasonable, to wit, "I'm on my Way to Mandalay" by Mr. G. L. Waterbury and Chorus, but that "I'll be all right."

Following the program proper, there will be Hallowe'en games and frolics, in which the audience will be able to participate, so that everybody may be young again.

Everyone is invited to come masked. The fun will be wholesome. Bring the spirit of Hallowe'en with you. Also, to get past the doorkeeper, bring a quarter or fifteen cents, according to whether you are a grown-up, or just a kiddie yet.

SPECIAL NOTICE: We shall have guards to watch the horses and vehicles. Pass the good word along.

KENTUCKY WOMAN, SUFFERER FROM STOMACH ILLS, QUICKLY RESTORED

Mrs. Belle Hawkins Uses Mayr Remedy—
"Never Felt Better in My Life."

Mrs. Belle Hawkins, Eminence, Ky., was a victim of stomach disorders. She took a great deal of treatment and medical attention.

At last she tried Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and got real results. In a letter telling of her experience she said:

"I have taken all of the medicine I ordered of you and will say it has done more good than all the doctors and medicine I ever tried. I don't really think I need any medicine now, as I think I am well, I never felt better in my life. If I ever should need any medicine I know where to get it."

That is a typical letter, taken as one Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy in all parts of the country. It proves its merit with the first dose—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

We want all people who have chronic stomach trouble or constipation, no matter how long standing, to try one dose of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—one dose will convince you. This is the medicine so many of our people have been taking with surprising results. The most thorough system cleanser ever sold. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by R. E. McRoberts and druggists everywhere.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

FARM DAIRY HOUSE.

Attractive and Convenient Structure That Costs Little Money.

A farm dairy house that will find favor with many milk producers is thus described by an Illinois correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman:

The foundation is 8 by 10 feet, and the house is eight feet high in the back by ten in front. The ventilator in the roof is of galvanized iron nine inches in diameter, with screen to exclude flies. The door is screened, and all windows will be. The cost was about as follows:

Lumber, hardware, etc. $45
Cement 5
Gravel 5
Labor 15
Water system 20
Total $100

The best materials obtainable were used throughout. The floor and foundation are of concrete with drain to carry off waste water.

The siding is of matched lumber put on vertically so water will run down

Any one producing market milk finds the need of some sort of place for handling it in a sanitary way, and the house shown and described here fills the need and at the same time adds to the appearance of the farm. All authorities agree that milk handled in an insanitary manner results in loss both to producer and consumer. The producer loses because unclean dairy products sell at a low price, and the consumer suffers because of enhanced cost of high grade milk and butter.

instead of following boards and running into cracks as it often does when siding is applied horizontally.

The building is lined with plaster board, making a double wall which is cooler in summer and warmer in winter. The interior is painted with white waterproof paint so the walls can be washed when necessary.

The main feature of this house is the location, which is almost ideal. Being ninety feet from the cow barn on somewhat higher ground than the latter, it complies with sanitary requirements. It is near the dwelling and convenient to driveway for loading milk on wagon. A tree growing near by is on the south side, giving ample shade except in early morning and late evening.

The water for cooling the milk is supplied by a windmill, and all of the water used by the stock passes through the aerator and cooling tank, thus lowering the temperature of the house by several degrees.

This dairy house may seem small for twenty cows, but by careful arrangement of the equipment it is ample, and in selling whole milk not as much room is required as though cream or butter were marketed. By having a water-tight cover for the cooling tank it can be used as a table for washing pails and utensils, thus saving space.

Cost of Feeding a Bull.

It is not an easy matter to determine exactly what it is worth to feed and care for a bull a year, says Hoard's Dairyman. A very close estimate can be made by the amount of grain and roughage he consumes, which will vary from $40 to $60 a year, depending, as is readily seen, upon the prices of feedstuff. We should say that for labor in caring for the animal from $15 to $20 would about cover this expense, and $5 to $10 ought to be sufficient to pay interest on the money invested in the building of the barn and stall for housing. It would therefore be worth from $60 to $90 per year to feed and care for a bull.

Abortion in Cows.

Use carbolic acid as a preventive of contagious abortion, says Hoard's Dairyman. In Great Britain we understand that some veterinarians are prescribing crude acid, but here the pure acid is preferred. The dose is two drams, well diluted with water and mixed in the soft feed for each pregnant cow every other night throughout pregnancy, or a 3 per cent solution of carbolic acid may be used, two drams being injected under the skin of the neck every ten days throughout pregnancy.

Closing a Teat Fistula.

A Nebraska correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman writes: "I used caustic potash to cauterize a fistula of the teat, and it cured it completely. The stick of potash was made sharp like a lead pencil and as far as possible was pushed into the hole of the cow's teat. It was a very small hole. The caustic potash was applied four weeks before the cow freshened, thus giving time for the cauterized tissues to heal before she freshened."

Toned Up Whole System.

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done more for me than I ever dared hope for," writes Mrs. Esther Mae Baker, Spencerport, N. Y. "I used several bottles of these tablets a few months ago. They not only cured me of bilious attacks, sick headaches and that tired feeling, but toned up my whole system." For sale by all dealers.

POULTRY PICKINGS.

The markets of this country are not nearly supplied and can never be overstocked with poultry and eggs.

If the pullets are now placed in their winter quarters it will give them a good chance to become acquainted with their new home before they start laying.

Don't delay any longer in culling out all stock that it is not intended to winter.

Among the nonsitting fowls most suitable for small runs are the Minorcas, Leghorns and Andalusians.

The Leghorns are the most prolific and precocious of all the varieties of poultry. The utility Leghorns are wonderful layers, and, being particularly hardy, they lay eggs freely both summer and winter.

VALUE OF FRESH AIR FOR POULTRY

It is important that the houses be so constructed that they will admit of fresh air. The exhalations from fowls are very poisonous, and so it is essential that they have thorough ventilation, writes M. K. Boyer in the Western Poultry Journal. At the same time we must not expose the flock to a direct draft of air. Fowls left to themselves will not stand in a draft, and when compelled to they catch cold as readily as does the human family.

Under the topic of the influence of environment Professor C. L. Opperman of the Maryland agricultural experiment station gives results in three pens, one a tight house, another a glass front house and another a cloth front house.

Tight House.—The conditions in this pen are more abnormal than those gen-

When green forage crops are no longer available greens must be furnished the poultry in the form of mangels, turnips, potatoes, cabbages, sprouted oats, cured clover or alfalfa. The mangel beet is very popular for this, being easily grown and kept. It is cheap, juicy, tender and does not impart bad flavor to eggs. Content tables show that for protein and ash clover, alfalfa, rape, cabbage and mangels excel, while for carbohydrates potatoes, red clover and mangels lead.

really found in the average tight poultry house. The air on account of improper ventilation is laden with moisture and pregnant with gases and odors from the droppings and litter. While water rarely freezes in this pen, the air is cold, damp and lifeless, even when the sun is bright. This condition is due to the excessive amount of moisture in the air, which has no means of circulating or escaping except through the small opening at the top of the sash.

The plumage of the fowls, instead of appearing smooth and glossy, as in the fresh air houses, is dull and rough and suggests a lack of vigor. The combs and wattles are noticeably paler than those of the fowls in the open and cloth front pens.

Glass Front House.—This pen can properly be named "the house of extremes." During the day when the sun is bright and warm the mercury often goes as high as 80 and 85 degrees F., and as night comes on it recedes as rapidly as it ascended. It is a well known fact that a glass surface will radiate cold as readily as it does heat, which would explain the wide variation of temperature in this pen. The ventilation is sufficient to keep the litter from becoming very damp and the air free from odors and gases.

Cloth Front House.—In a house of this construction dampness, gases and odors are entirely absent. The air is at all times fresh, dry and invigorating. The litter, instead of being damp, cracks and snaps as you walk over it.

Importance of Poultry.

On many a farm the egg crop is looked at very differently now from what it was years ago. Formerly the farmers used to think it was all right for "women folks" to fuss with the eggs, but today many a business farmer is giving his attention to the poultry as much as he is to the hogs and cattle.

Causes of Wry Tails.

When the tails are carried on one side it is known as wry tail. This is often caused by overcrowding the young while they are growing. It also sometimes is a deformity inherited from the parent stock.

It Always Does the Work.

"I like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy better than any other," writes R. E. Roberts, Homer City, Pa. "I have taken it off and on for years it has never failed to give the desired results." For sale by all dealers. 1-m.

Growing alfalfa in this locality is no longer an experiment. Every farmer within a radius of ten miles of Lancaster could have on his farm in two years a few acres of this most profitable foliage crop. Those who were so progressive as to undertake alfalfa in the experimental stage and made a success, report they have mowed their field four times this year with a gross average of about six tons per acre, or about one and one fourth tons per acre for each mowing. This is better hay than either timothy or clover and each cutting is equal in yield to the average timothy or clover meadow in this locality. Many of our farmers are preparing to plant a few acres next year, and it is quite advisable to start with a limited crop with the best of care in planning. Land best suited to its growth is deep well drained soil. Those who have had the best results here have sowed the land to cow peas about the first of May and mowed the peas about the 20th of July for hay. After the pea hay is mowed the land is thoroughly prepared by either turning or discing according to conditions and then treated with from one to three tons of crushed limestone per acre and which is necessary and indispensable to a successful crop. The land must also be inoculated with certain bacteria which can be had by applying to the Agricultural department at Washington D. C. This department will furnish a sufficient amount of the Culture to inoculate the seed for the sowing of several acres. The sowing should be between August first and September 10th. Only those persons who have planted within these dates have thus far been able to report a successful crop.

This is one of the most profitable crops that our farmers can grow. For the hay is the nearest substitute for the feeding of grain that has been found. The process is simple, and success is assured to all who will heed directions of the pioneers. We urge our farmers to prepare for the planting of a few acres of alfalfa in the fall of 1915.

A slight inspection of the Garrard County Court House would reveal its dilapidated condition. It has badly needed repairing and remodeling for a number of years, and the plan and obtaining of the necessary funds have for some time worried fiscal authorities of the County. It is impossible for the Fiscal Court to secure enough money at this time to do the necessary work without authority to issue bonds. And the building is in such a condition that it is imperative to have immediate attention. The Circuit Court room can hardly be used in inclement weather and will probably be condemned in the near future unless some repairs are made. The expenditure of a small sum would be entirely wasted according to the opinion of the Court and it has submitted to the people the question of giving the Court authority to sell $15,000, worth of bonds. A County with the wealth and financial condition of this County can afford and ought to have a good Court House, and with a few thousand dollars it can be had. By issuing bonds it relieves the present tax payers of the entire burden of the cost of this public building and causes the succeeding tax payers to help pay for a thing designed for their benefit as well as the present generation's. While $15,000.00 is a small sum for this purpose the Court thinks this a sufficient amount for the present needs and we feel that all the voters should vote yes on the bond issue at next Tuesday election. Whatever party ticket you may care to support next Tuesday you ought to vote in the square after "Yes" on the question of bond issue. By issuing bonds will not raise the taxes in the County above its present rate. The levy at present is fifty cents on one hundred dollars for County purposes and will remain at that rate whether the bonds are issued or not because if the bonds are not voted it will be necessary for the Court to create a sinking fund for the purpose of raising this money which will necessitate the present tax payers to bear all the burden of fixing the Court House.

Next Tuesday, November 3rd, will be election day. It is very apparent that entire harmony prevails in the democratic ranks, and that a large majority of the voters of Kentucky are satisfied with democratic rule both in the State and in the Nation. The only possibility of defeat of our state ticket is for democrats to feel this so far that they will not go to the polls on election day to vote. While it may appear that there is little or no organization among the republicans we might be deceived. Let no democrat depend too much upon the division in the republican party. While there may be a few progressives left, the indication over the State in general is that a large percentage of those who were with the progressive party two years ago will vote with the republican party this year, therefore, let every democrat be on hand next Tuesday and make the election of Governor Beckham and Senator Camden an overwhelming victory. See that your democratic neighbor is there as well as yourself. If the democrats will only come out our majority will be the largest that we have had in a number of years.

The election this year will have a distinct bearing on next year's contest when the Governor and all the State Officers are to be elected. A great democratic victory this Fall will insure a democratic triumph next year. Go to the polls early and do your full duty by your party.

A 10 room house with good cisterns all necessary out buildings, and 15 acres, of land, including a large garden, stable lot, good orchard and pasture. This place is 1 mile from Paint Lick, Ky., on the Richmond and Lancaster turnpike. There is another pike at the side of residence and there is a rural route on each pike. There are two railroad stations, with Express offices, one 1/2 of a mile, and the other one mile distant. We are in easy walking distance of Paint Lick's flourishing High School. It is an ideal place for a travelling man with children to educate, who desires to place his family in a good neighborhood, and healthful location. It is in very easy walking distance of two churches, 1 mile to another, and about 2 1/2 and 1 1/2 miles, to two others. These are of the leading denominations. For further particulars address, Dr. Nelson Mays, R. R. No. 2, Paint Lick, Kentucky.

BASCOM FORD

Receives His Appointment for Rural Carrier.

Beginning next Monday, November 2nd, Mr. B. C. Ford will assume his duties as Rural Carrier on route No. 3, he having received his appointment from Washington last Saturday. This is one of the best paying routes in the county and Mr. Ford will receive $1200 a year for his services. Mr. Ford should prove a popular and efficient carrier and the patrons of the route are to be congratulated.

LARGE CROWD HEARS GEN. GARNETT, MONDAY.

The first democratic speech in this County this year was by Gen. James Garnett at the Court House Monday. The speaker is well known and popular in Garrard County, and a fair sized crowd of enthusiastic democrats listened attentively to Gen. Garnett. The speaker praised the national administration and President Wilson and caused considerable enthusiasm among the democrats of the County. He urged the democrats to come out on election day and not depend too much upon the division in the ranks of the opposing party. He predicted the election of Governor Beckham and Senator Camden for the long and short senatorial terms by a large majority.

"THANK GOD FOR WOODROW WILSON."

In the face of the fiercest detraction, President Wilson brought about peace in Mexico. He refused to declare war against the unfortunate people of that country, although the capitalists who had exploited Mexico and the republican leaders in and out of Congress, denounced him as cowardly incapable. His wise policy of "watchful waiting" was condemned by a partisan press. But the President bided his time, conscious that the humanity which dictated his course, would meet with the approval of the people. With Europe an Inferno, hundreds of thousands dead and dying, homes desolated and innocent women and children despoiled, the United States is at peace with the world, a heaven for the oppressed of all lands. When the frenzy of war abates President Wilson will be the arbiter to whom these distracted countries can turn with assurance that he will deal justly with them. He has already tendered his good offices.

"Thank God for Woodrow Wilson" is a universal prayer. It comes from the hearts of millions of grateful people who know the horrors of war and who realize that this nation is indebted to him for the blessings of peace. It must not be forgotten that the President is on trial in the November election. He has appealed to his party to give him a democratic House and Senate, without whose support he would be bound hand and foot. He has given a hearty personal endorsement to Governor Beckham and Senator Camden and the democratic nominees for Congress. A vote against any one of them will be a vote against him.

GREAT AMERICAN MULE.

The study mule, it is the rule That he must go to war, He leaves his home to go and roam In countries strange and far. A happy pair may start from where They fed in the same trench; And one, you know, with Germans go. The other with the French. The U. S. A. breeds mules, they say. For half the world at least. Here's to the mule! In life's hand shoe He is a faithful beast.

SCHOOL NOTES.

(By Wm. F. Miller.)

Lancaster High School Foot Ball Team, Wallops the Strong Eleven from Harrodsburg Here Friday by the Neat Score of 7 to 0.

Feature of the game was successful forward passes worked by Bourne to Herron at end. One of the finest played. Foot Ball games ever pulled off in Lancaster was the one on last Friday afternoon on the local gridiron, this game was a fight from start to finish and just the way the score would go no one could tell until Referee Swope blew his whistle for time "up" last quarter, declaring L. H. S. victorious.

Harrodsburg had a strong eleven compared with that of the local boys and played classy ball, they went into the game like a "Lion" but came out like a "Lamb". For the 1st. Quarter it looked as if they would make 10 yds. gains on "bucks", but they were soon quieted down. It was in the 1st. Quarter, that Lancaster received the Ball, Ramey carrying it to the 40 yd. line, and 3 successful forward passes from Bourne to Herron, made for Lancaster, her touchdown. The passes were received by Herron at a distance of 10 to 15 yards with a gain of 3 to 4 yards on a run, and it was only once did he miss one of the passes, and that was due to a cause of unlevel ground causing him to fall. The best gains were made by Herron and Rich receiving forward passes from Bourne at Quarter, but when ever a "gain" of a few yards was needed Wilmott was there with the goods.

The whole team played good ball, and runs were made, without difficult of 3 to 5 yard gains. The weather was ideal and it seemed that every man was at his best.

Coleman, Sale and Sommers, kept us in touch that Harrodsburg was on the ground, while the individual Stars for Lancaster were Herron, Bourne, Elliott, Rich and Wilmott. On the last Quarter Bourne attempted a drop kick but failed.

Following is the line up of both teams:

Sommers	Q	Bourne
Veach	F	Wilmott
T. C. Coleman	RH	Elliott
Chinn	LH	Montgomery
Board	C	Carrier
	LT	Miller
Coleman	AT	Ramey
	LG	Kinnaird
	RG	Brown
J. Salee	LE	Herron
	RE	Rich
Points	Goal	Total
L. H. S. 1 0 0 0	1	7
H. H. S. 0 0 0 0	0	0

RURAL CREDIT FOR KENTUCKY.

The farmers of Kentucky should be very much interested in the fact that a Rural Credit Association has been organized in Kentucky, with Gov. James B. McCreary as its first President. It is the first organization of its kind in the United States, though the plan upon which it is founded has been in successful operation for 147 years in Europe.

The plan of the Kentucky Rural Credit Association is co-operative and, under it, money borrowed on land becomes a permanent investment. Its plan is the amortization plan, which lessens the burden of the debt and increases the security of the loan.

Amortization is simply a method of paying off the loan by returning a little of the capital each year. These payments are called annuities and are composed of the interest and contributions to the sinking fund and cost of conducting the business.

For instance, if a farmer borrows from the Kentucky Rural Credit Association (of which he must be a member before he can borrow) say the sum of $1,000 for a period of 20 years, he will pay annually $85, and at the end of the 20 years he will owe nothing. He has, however, the privilege of discharging his entire obligation at any time after five years, if he should so desire.

Under the present system of farm loans the farmer often pays far in excess of 8 1/2 per cent, in some instances as high as 25 per cent, interest, commission, recording fees, etc., and in the end he still owes the principal.

HOGWALLOW

(From the Hogwallow Kentuckian.)

The Hog Ford church is thinking about doing away with the church bell, as everybody knows when Sunday comes anyway.

Raz Barlow was seen buying a stamp at the postoffice Thursday morning. It is believed that he is preparing to send a letter through the mails.

Sidney Hooks wore his new shoes over to see Miss Flutie Belcher Sunday night. She did not know he was coming until she heard his new shoes squeaking.

Winter is coming on us and there are several cracks in the postoffice that ought to be fixed, but the postmaster says Congress would let his feet freeze off before they would have it fixed.

In a pistol fight between two men at Rye Straw Saturday evening, Atlas Peck got one of his glasses in the spectacles cracked by a glancing bullet. Next time he will leave them at home.

The Hog Ford preacher said some hard things about sinners Sunday and his congregation enjoyed it very much and agreed with him on every point and wished some of the sinners could have been there to hear him.

Washington Hooks, after several years study with roots and herbs, has perfected a remedy for the removal of dandruff. The remedy is in the form of an ointment or salve, is rubbed on the hair and at once begins to thin out the hair until the patient becomes bald headed. After that the dandruff is left exposed to the sun and air and disappears. It will also remove corns and whiskers.

One of the attractive social functions for Monday was the beautiful thimble party given by Mrs. Percy Carl Sprague at her pretty apartments in the Pelman on North Thirteenth street, when she entertained in honor of Mrs. H. A. B. Marksbury of Kentucky, who is with Mrs. A. H. Rice. Chrysanthemums in yellow and white, so beautiful at this season of the year, were used in arranging the rooms. The afternoon was spent socially and with music and needlework. At the close of the function a delicious luncheon was served in the Sun parlor. All the appointments for the table were in yellow and green. In the center was a French basket filled with chrysanthemums. The handle of the basket was fastened with a pretty yellow tulle bow. The favor for the guests of honor was a pretty corsage bouquet. The other guests were given dainty little nosegays made of yellow roses and fastened with yellow bows. The guests who enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess were Mesdames H. A. B. Marksbury of Kentucky, John Norton of Nashville Tenn., H. S. Weed, L. E. Richey, Howard Kamp, Julian Catas, E. E. Beatty, A. H. Rice and Miss Helen Beatty.—Richmond, Ind. Falkland.

What is Needed.

Killed by Runaway Barrel.
A runaway barrel of beer killed a woman in Glasgow the other day. A carrier was unloading a lorry when a beer barrel slipped and rolled down a steep incline, where it fell down a staircase on which were four people. A woman was knocked down and killed instantly and three other people were injured.

A Success.
The conversation had turned to the many men who had met success. "There, for instance," said one man, pointing down the street, "goes a man who began life in poverty and now lives on the fat of the land." McFee looked. "Yes, I know him," he replied. "He's an agent for an antifrat concern."—Judge.

Ornithological Weddings.

There was a poetic appropriateness in two weddings which were celebrated in London some time ago in which Mr. Bird and Miss Linnet to the altar and Mr. Wren was linked to Miss Nightingale.

Although it is seldom that one comes across two of these "ornithological" weddings in one day, they are by no means uncommon.

On one occasion a church near Dublin was the scene of an interesting marriage in which a Mr. Crowe was united to a Miss Crowe by the Rev. Canon Peacock, the wedding march being played by Mr. Rook. Much more remarkable, however, was a match which set Edinburgh in a flutter some years since. The bride was Miss Henrietta Peacock, and the bridegroom was Robin Sparrow. The Rev. Mr. Daw performed the marriage ceremony; Philip Hawk officiated as best man and Miss Larkins as principal bridesmaid, while the marriage lines were extracted by John Crow, session clerk. "It is worthy of further remark," adds a reporter, "that the sexton's name is Raven, one of the few openers is a Gull, and the assistant sexton is a Henry Laycock."—London Tatler.

Echoes Made to Order.

Are you aware that it is possible to make echoes? It is, indeed, easier to make than to destroy them.

In the past men built their great temples and cathedrals with no thought of acoustics. Hence, when the preacher preached echoes rolled freely amid the groins of the roof, down the rows of sculptured columns and round and round the nave.

With wires strung here and with tapestries spread there many of the echoes of the old world buildings have been obliterated. There are echo experts—builders acquainted with the science of acoustics, whose specialty is echoes' destruction. Sometimes their tasks are hard.

Today an architect takes thought of the echo. His building is constructed so as to exclude this intruder. And, knowing how to exclude it, he knows how to welcome it also.

Architects are frequently called upon in landscape work to put up summer houses and arrange rocks around them so as to create an echo there. And this they can satisfactorily do.—London Tit-Bits.

An Engine That Wouldn't Down.

A light American automobile was sold to a tea planter of upper Assam, a region in the Himalayan foothills with scarcely any good roads and a rainfall of from 300 to 500 inches a year. Six months after it was purchased the planter's native chauffeur drove it into a washout on the Chempung road during a freshet, and it went rolling 500 feet into the rain swollen river. A week's search failed to reveal any trace of machine or driver. At the end of the rainy season the remains of the machine were found several miles below the point where the accident had occurred. The wheels were gone and the body battered almost beyond recognition, and it was only on the score of sentiment that the planter had the pieces gathered up and taken home by coolies. A month later while on a tour of Assam I saw the salvaged engine and part of the transmission gear set up over a well and actually pumping water to the planter's bungalow on the top of a high ridge.—World's Work.

Fog Signals.

All the up to date light stations possess fog signals for warning the mariner of the presence of rocks and other dangers in foggy weather. The larger ones are so powerful that their blasts can be heard twenty-five to thirty miles out at sea. Most of them are worked by compressed air, a gas engine of perhaps twenty or twenty-five horsepower being brought into requisition for this purpose. The siren is blown periodically every seventy, eighty or ninety seconds or so, the actual blast lasting perhaps about two or three seconds. It means that while the siren is running, in the case of the larger apparatus, something like 500 horsepower is being expended in the production of sound.—Scientific American.

The Orator Scored.

"Who is there," cried the impassioned orator, "who will lift a voice against the truth of my statement?"

Just then a donkey on the outskirts of the crowd gave vent to one of the piercing "hee-haws" of the tribe.

The laugh was on the orator for a moment; but, assuming an air of triumph, he lifted his voice above the din to say, "I knew nobody but an ass would try it!"—London Globe.

A Proposal Under Difficulties

By F. A. MITCHEL

Dick Thurston and Emily Swift became engaged one night during a thunderstorm. Emily was nearly frightened to death and didn't know what Dick, who wasn't afraid of thunder, was talking about. When the storm had passed Dick said to her or, rather, began to say to her:

"Sweetheart!"

"By what right do you call me sweetheart?"

"You don't mean to say that you were so crazy as to talk of love with those frightful bolts striking all about us?"

"Why not? We were in no more danger than we are at all times. How do we know when we cross a street but that an automobile may knock us into eternity? At any minute one's heart may stop beating, one's—"

"Stop!"

Dick stopped and remained quiet for some time.

"Have you lost your tongue?" Emily said at last.

"You shut me up."

"I did that because you were talking so horribly."

"May I go on?"

"Of course, if you wish to."

"What was I talking about?"

She turned toward him with a glance that was intended to wither him, but said nothing.

"Oh, I remember; we were talking about the storm. It was a hummer, wasn't it?"

"That bolt when the flash and the thunder came together must have struck something."

"The young lady pouted, but said nothing. She was fingering an ornament suspended from a gold chain about her neck."

"I wonder if it killed any one," pursued Dick.

"Perhaps it was the fool killer hunting for a victim. Maybe that's what brought it so near."

"This shut the young man off again. He looked out through the window."

"See the moon shining now?" he exclaimed. "That's the finest one I ever saw. The light is brilliant."

"The moonshine did not interest her. She scorned even to look at it."

"Darling," said Dick, "what makes you so cross?"

"Don't you dare call me darling!"

"Got it again right between the eyes. Do you know, Em, that I believe that our engagement, having taken place in a thunderstorm, will be brimful of sulphur."

"Will you be good enough to explain to me what you mean by our engagement?"

"Well, I like that! I propose to a young lady. The proposition, I admit, is made under tempestuous circumstances. Nevertheless she nestles—"

"That was from fright."

"Nestling is pretty nice anyway."

"Will you go on?"

"Vergil tells us that Dido and Aeneas became engaged during a thunderstorm."

"I am not interested in Dido and Aeneas."

"This was said so snappishly that Dick looked within himself again. He had no more to say in silence."

"If you have nothing more to say to me," Emily finally broke the silence.

"I see no reason for our remaining together any longer. I have things to do."

"You wouldn't leave me, would you, just after our becoming engaged? That would be like a groom spending the honeymoon in North America and the bride in China."

She rose and was sweeping out of the room when he called to her:

"What do you wish me to do?"

"I wish you to"—she halted.

"Say it all over again."

"If you had a spark of sentiment you would know what to do."

"Well, while you were sitting close to me—frightened at the storm, you know—and I had my arm around your waist—"

"I don't remember that at all."

"Certainly not. You were too frightened to remember it. When my arm was around your waist and my ear close against your lips—I mean my lips were—"

"Never mind all that. Go on."

"I said: 'Don't be frightened, dear. Remember that you are in the arms of one who'—"

Another belated clap broke in to spoil again a tender scene. He had placed his arm about her waist and held her hand. She closed her fingers about his, as if fearing he would get away.

"I thought the storm was over," he remarked.

"I think it is. That was merely an after clap. Go on."

"I'm afraid if I do and another storm comes on I'll have to do it again. That'll make three times. You might say it between two bolts."

A dazzling flash, with simultaneous thunder. He held her tightly in his arms and cried above the reverberations:

"Emmy, dearest, I love you. Will you marry me?"

Her reply was toned to rise above the thunder, which ceased suddenly:

"Yes!"

"I heard you," he said, laughing, and, notwithstanding the solemnity of the occasion, she laughed too.

Congressional Library.

The Congressional Library building was finished in 1897 at a cost of $6,347,000, exclusive of the land, the price of which was $585,000. The collection of books and pamphlets in the library is the largest in the western hemisphere and the third finest in the world, numbering, in printed works, charts, manuscripts, etc., 1,900,000 volumes.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Horses will stamp through the best cement floor you can make in short order. Put plank on top of the cement.

Not the thing of least value about the hogpens is the nature. Save all of it and see that it gets back on to the land.

The sheep flock should go into winter quarters in a growing and thrifty condition. It is uphill work to care for a flock through a winter if they are put in quarters in a weakened and rundown condition.

Is the horse barn a dark, unventilated place where you dislike to stay long? Poor place this for good horses. Better improve it now.

Put the winter quarters in shape for the breeding hogs. Hogs cannot stand exposure to cold and stormy weather.

PAYING RATION FOR FATTENING CATTLE

Experiments conducted at the Texas stations prove the value of cottonseed meal and silage as rations for fattening cattle, says the Country Gentleman. The rations used were cottonseed meal and silage; cottonseed meal, cottonseed hulls and silage; cottonseed meal and cottonseed hulls; cottonseed meal and silage. The cost of the feed used was as follows: Cottonseed meal $27 a ton, cottonseed hulls $7 a ton, cottonseed $17 a ton and silage $2.00 a ton.

Twenty-eight steers were divided into four lots, and all received the same treatment except for the rations. The average weight of the steers was 833 pounds, and they cost $42.21 a head, or $4.95 a hundredweight.

When on full feed each steer in lot 1, on cottonseed meal and cottonseed hulls, ate six pounds of meal and thirty pounds of hulls a day. Each steer in lot 2, on cottonseed meal and silage, ate six pounds of meal and fifty-two pounds of silage a day. Each steer in lot 3, on cottonseed meal, hulls and silage, ate six pounds of meal, fifteen

Among the best breeds the Short-horns rank very high, and many believe them the best. The Angus and Herefords are excellent cattle, but as breeds do not get as heavy as Short-horns. As milk producers Short-horn cows lead those of all best breeds. They are hardy and vigorous cattle when well fed. The cow shown was champion Short-horn and champion female over all breeds at the Nebraska fair.

pounds of hulls and forty-two pounds of silage a day. Each steer in lot 4, on cotton seed and silage, ate eight and nine-tenths pounds of cotton seed and forty-eight pounds of silage. Because the cotton seed scorched the cattle at the last of the feeding period it was replaced with meal as in the other lots and immediately the cattle recovered and increased in weight.

It will be noted that all the steers made excellent gains and at a very low cost per 100 pounds of gain. The relative gain of the different lots, however, is hardly shown, for in shipping lots 1 and 3 showed much greater shrinkage. The net shrinkage, or the shrinkage less the fill, on lot 1 was 123 pounds, on lot 2 sixty pounds, on lot 3 ninety-four pounds and on lot 4 sixty-nine pounds. Hence the actual gain of the silage and meal fed steers of lot 2 was greater than that of the hulls and meal fed steers of lot 1, and lot 2 made a much larger profit.

The net profit on lot 1, fed hulls and meal, was $14.32; on lot 2, fed silage and meal, $20.01; on lot 3, fed silage, hulls and meal, $15.84; on lot 4, fed silage and cotton seed, $18.70.

Comparing the results of the four lots from the standpoint either of largest net gains or cheapest gains, lot 2, fed cottonseed meal and silage, must be given the advantage.

We must conclude therefore that the ration of meal and silage is considerably superior to the others.

Treatment For Hog Paralysis.

When a hog becomes paralyzed in the hind parts give a physic of castor oil or epsom salts and then feed milk, middlings and linewater in form of slop, says the Farm Journal. Add green cut fodder or roots or grass. Once daily rub the loins with druggist's soap liniment. Give the hog a fluid extract of nux vomica, starting with three drops twice daily and increasing the medicine a drop per dose daily until alarming symptoms are seen or the hog gets up, at which stage go back to the first dose and repeat if thought necessary. The condition is due to pampering, lack of exercise and overfeeding. Stuffing on corn is most likely to bring it on. The tendency to the disease is hereditary in sows from pampered stock.

Treasure for the Louvre.

A valuable collection worth $20,000, 000 has been bequeathed to the Louvre by Baron Schlechting, a prominent member of the Russian colony in Paris, who died recently. It comprises pictures, bronzes, objets d'art and furniture. Among the pictures are some of the finest known examples of Rubens, Boucher, Fragonard, Nattier and Watteau.

Lesson V.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 1, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxvi, 57-63. Memory Verses, 63, 64—Golden Text, Isa. lili, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Not only was there power in His two words, "I am," to send them all to the ground, but more than twelve legions of angels were ready to respond to His call if He had asked for them (verse 53; John xviii, 5, 6). But He came to fulfill all Scripture, and the time had come for Him to let them take Him. It was their hour, and the power of darkness. At least twelve times in Matthew's gospel it is written "that it might be fulfilled" or "then was fulfilled" (Matt. i, 22; ii, 15, 17, 23; viii, 17; xii, 17; xiii, 35; xxi, 4; xxvi, 54, 56; xxviii, 9, 35). After His resurrection He said that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the Law of Moses and in the prophets and in the psalms concerning Him (Luke xxiv, 44). He came to fulfill all Scripture, and He will; all concerning the future as literally as He has fulfilled the past; so when we read any yet unfulfilled prophecy we should say this shall surely come to pass in His time.

They laid hold on Jesus and led Him away. They took Jesus and bound Him and led Him away to Annas first (verse 57; John xviii, 13). This was an inconceivable, unimaginable record, were it not so awfully true, that the Creator of all things, who giveth to all life and breath and all things, suffered His rebellious creatures to take Him and bind Him and lead Him as they pleased. According to the golden text, led as a lamb to the slaughter and as a sheep dumb before its shearer. God in the hands of sinful man, and submitting to all their ill treatment, that we who by His sufferings for us are made children of God when we receive the Lord Jesus, might learn how to submit to ill treatment for His sake (1 Pet. ii, 19-25).

Peter followed Him afar off (verse 58), but his story will come in a later lesson. In verse 56 it is said that all the disciples forsook Him and fled. This also was a record, and it is the prophecy, "I will smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered." There is an interesting statement in this connection in Mark xiv, 51, 52, concerning a young man who followed Him when He was arrested, having only a linen cloth about his naked body, and as some laid hold on him he left the linen cloth and fled from them naked. As Mark is the only one who gives this record, we shall have to ask him about it when we see him.

In the remainder of our lesson we see Jesus in the presence of the high priest, the chief priests, the scribes and elders and all the council. They sought false witnesses against Him to put Him to death, but though many bore witness they did not agree. At the last came two who testified that Jesus said, "I am able to destroy the temple of God and to build it in three days; but neither did their witness agree together (Mark xiv, 55, 59). This also was Scripture fulfilled which saith, "False witnesses are risen up against me, and such as breathe out cruelty." They laid to my charge things that I knew not" (Ps. cxviii, 12; xxxv, 19). Oh, the cruel injustice of it all, the mad hatred of those who were fully determined to kill Him! "Could Turk treat Armenians worse?"

Jesus held His peace. He answered nothing (verse 60; xxviii, 12). There was nothing to answer, for no two witnesses agreed. How much false accusation can you bear meekly for His sake? Have you learned to see God and not people, and to say, "I, as a deaf man, heard not, and I was as a dumb man that could not speak his mouth?" "I was dumb, I opened not my mouth because thou didst it" (Ps. cxviii, 13; xxxix, 9). It is a wise saying that "whoso becometh his mouth and his tongue becometh his soul from troubles" (Prov. xxi, 23), but who can do it, for the tongue can no man tame?

The people in the time of Hezekiah did wisely when they hid their power and answered not a word to the blasphemer. Hezekiah did wisely when he spread the blasphemies before the Lord (II Kings xxi, 26; xix, 14). When the high priest said, "I adjure thee by the Living God that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God?" then an answer was necessary, and Jesus answered, saying, "Thou hast said." But how startling to the high priest, who have been added words, unless he was too dead in sin to be startled or anything. "Nevertheless, I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of power and coming in the clouds of heaven" (verses 62, 64).

That settled it in the minds of these holy men. The prisoner was a blasphemer and worthy of death; so they mocked Him, and smote Him, and spit in His face, and blindfolded Him, and asked Him to tell who struck Him. Was ever a prisoner so ill treated even if guilty? Not so with us. But this man was innocent, for even Judas Iscariot had so testified. Some day all these men will be before Him as their judge, and unless they repented before they died they will have to hear His "Depart ye cursed." Even at this day the scholarship of the world may be heard declaring as blasphemers those who truly believe that Jesus is God, but the great truth stands, and the time of His coming again draweth nigh.

Why Not Publish It.

When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallans, Peru Ind. was troubled with belching, sour stomach and frequent headaches. She writes, "I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They have helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them I have been eating and sleeping better."

What Would You Do?

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is, what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it."

A pie Supper will be given Friday night at Orchard Grove school house. Every body invited.

Mr. Tom Evans and family of Kirksville, Mrs. Maggie Upton and daughter of Wilmore attended the funeral of the late Mr. Evans.

Mrs. B. K. Swope and Fanny Pollard will leave in a few days for a weeks stay with relatives in Casey and Lincoln counties.

Mr. Martin Evans died at Smith's Hospital at Danville last Friday, where he had been operated on for appendicitis. His death was a surprise to his physicians, and could not be accounted for, as he was doing nicely from the operation as they thought. Mr. Evans was a farmer gentleman of high integrity and honest in his dealings with man kind. He leaves a wife and 4 children, Alonzo, Lee, Lucy D. and Marrietta Evans. The funeral services were held at Pleasant Grove church Sunday afternoon, Rev. Bell conducting the service. Expressions of kindest sympathy are being offered the bereaved family. Mrs. Evans, who has been ill for some time, was not able to attend her husband's funeral.

A TRUMPET CALL TO DEMOCRACY

Senator Camden In Ringing Words, Tells of His Party's Services

"WOODROW WILSON, DEMOCRACY AND KENTUCKY"

Senator Camden's Statement of the Great Services Rendered to the People By Woodrow Wilson and His Administration Was Strongly and Impressively Told.

Versailles, Ky., Oct. 26.—Senator Johnson N. Camden addressed his home people here this afternoon. His statement of the great services rendered to the people by Woodrow Wilson and his administration was very strongly and impressively told as a business man would tell it without trills or furbelows. His speech in full was as follows:

My friends I have been complimented and honored with a seat in the United States Senate as one of the Representatives from Kentucky. I would be an ingrate did I not embrace this, my first opportunity, to extend to you, and through you, to the Democracy of Kentucky, my profound and heartfelt thanks for the magnificent vote and endorsement given to me at the primary election last August. I was prevented from prosecuting a canvass of the state in the interest of my candidacy, and from meeting you face to face, by reason of the measures of importance pending in Congress demanding my presence there as your representative. In discharge of the trust committed by you to my hands, and yet you gave me such a splendid majority and endorsement, that I am unable to find words with which to express to you my obligation and my thanks.

I have earnestly endeavored during my short term of office to represent Kentucky—in conjunction with my distinguished colleague, Hon. Ollie M. James—in her varied interests to the very best of my ability by being faithfully at the post of duty, and by casting my vote for those measures which I conceived to be best for the interests of the country; believing that in this way I could best demonstrate my appreciation of your confidence and my loyalty to your interests.

An Appreciated Honor.

It is an honor to represent any state in the Federal Senate; to participate in the framing of legislation in the interests of the great American people, but especially is it a high honor to represent in that body the great state of Kentucky, a state so rich in its heritage and its history. While I can not claim the honor of being a native of Kentucky, I do claim to know a good thing when I see it, and I came here soon after attaining my majority, as soon as I was authorized to act for myself. You will observe that to me being a Kentuckian is a matter of selection and choice, while you natives really deserve no credit, as you had no say so whatever, but were just born here, and couldn't help yourselves.

I heard of some objections to my candidacy because I was not a native Kentuckian, but to my mind a state which has furnished to the other states of the Union 10 of their governors and which has at the present time four native Kentuckians in the United States Senate, representing other states, and claims as her sons the Speaker and Leader of the Lower House of Congress, should be generous enough not to raise her voice against one who came as soon as he could, who expects to live and die here, and who is willing to live and let live, be he rich or poor, consistently object to such a law?

The calamity howlers, with axes to grind, have criticized this tariff bill, and called it a failure, yet, although it has been in operation only a year, there has been raised more revenue under it than by the Payne-Aldrich bill for the previous year, or in fact for any year in the last ten.

This country has known. It also seems to me that it must be a source of pride and satisfaction to every Democrat who takes the stump this fall that he can dwell exclusively upon the remedial and beneficial legislation enacted by this administration, instead of, as in years gone by, waging only a campaign of opposition upon the short-comings of the Republicans.

Aiding the Whole People.

Never before in our history has any political party undertaken to extend the aid and protection of the government to the people in their struggles, as has the present Democratic administration. It has been a revelation to the thinking people, to find after five years under Republican misrule for such a length of time, that this really is, as our great Kentuckian hoped for, "A government of the people, by the people and for the people," when properly and honestly administered. It is a revelation to the business man, to the laborer, to the farmer, and in fact to all classes of citizens. Being myself a farmer, and consequently especially familiar with his environments, his needs and his ambitions, I want to say that I have been delighted to find so many wise measures in his interest enacted by the Democratic administration. I wish to call your attention to a few of the most conspicuously helpful laws passed by this administration in behalf of the people.

Tariff Revised Downward.

If the present administration were entitled to credit for no other legislation than the Underwood Tariff Act, in my judgment, that alone would be sufficient to commend it to the affection and admiration of the American people. Unlike its predecessors, this tariff bill was drawn in the interests of the whole people, and not for a particular class.

After many years of patient waiting we have at last, under Democratic administration, and as one of its first acts, a tariff bill that actually revises the tariff downward, and in many cases removes it entirely from the necessities of life. The Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill, which was so highly commended by President Taft in his celebrated Winona speech, was enough to damn any party and did defeat and damn the Republican party for ever. No party of whatever denomination can retain the respect and support of a free people, that shows its utter disregard of their rights by promising relief before the election and yet contrives to legislate in the interests of the classes and against the masses when placed in power. This is the history of the Republican party, under the selfish leaders who possessed themselves of that once historic party, conclusively demonstrates. A party may fool the people for awhile, but a day of reckoning is sure to come.

Republican Commendation.

The commendation and support of this tariff bill by a number of the able and conscientious Republicans and Progressive members of both Houses speaks volumes in its behalf, because strenuous efforts were made by the leaders and whips of these parties to line up their men and present a solid front in opposition to the bill. Senator Polk, an able Progressive, referring to his vote for the measure, very pointedly said on the floor of the Senate:

"Many of those who ostensibly have been especially grieved over my vote for this bill and who claim to be greatly exercised as to the evil consequences which will follow its enactment are, as a matter of fact, really but little interested in the tariff schedules of the bill. That feature of the bill which really arouses their bitter hostility, although they are curiously silent upon it, is not the tariff at all, but the income tax."

"As a rule those who are in favor of prohibitory or excessive tariff rates are opposed to a properly graded income tax. Some of this class have been compelled by force of public opinion to favor an income tax, but in reality oppose it under the guise of opposition to the tariff reductions in the pending bill. This bill, so far as it modifies the existing law, shifts to that extent the burden of taxation from the poor consumer to the rich possessors of great incomes. Its tendency is to lighten the taxes upon mere sufficiency and increase them upon superfluity. This has been the policy and theory of every wise system of taxation in the most enlightened civilization."

The Income Tax.

To my mind one of the strongest features of the Underwood Tariff Bill is the Income Tax, because it requires those who are ablest and have received the greatest benefits, to come to the support of the government, and to that extent removes the burden from the shoulders of the poor. Instead of requiring every man who buys a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, a hat, or any other necessity of life, to contribute a large per cent of the price paid to support the government, and incidentally enrich the manufacturer, as he has done under a protective tariff so long, it says to a man with an income in excess of $3,000, you are better able to bear this burden, because you are receiving more of the benefits, so you pay your part, and relieve your less fortunate brothers. What fair-minded man, I ask you, who is willing to live and let live, be he rich or poor, consistently object to such a law?

The calamity howlers, with axes to grind, have criticized this tariff bill, and called it a failure, yet, although it has been in operation only a year, there has been raised more revenue under it than by the Payne-Aldrich bill for the previous year, or in fact for any year in the last ten.

When normal conditions are restored and the countries now engaged in destruction, change to production, with the rehabilitation of business and a resultant increase in imports, the Underwood Tariff Bill will abundantly establish the wisdom of Democratic statesmanship.

Let me call your attention especially to what the government has done in direct aid of the farmer:

Government Aid in Eradicating Hog Cholera.

A very careful government estimate made no later than 1913 revealed the fact that six million hogs, valued at $65,000,000, died of hog cholera in the United States that year. As this is a preventable disease, it means that over 700,000,000 pounds of dressed meat and lard, or enough to furnish every family in the land with about 35 pounds of meat has been needlessly lost. This has been allowed to go on unnoticed for fifty years. It remained for this Democratic Congress to take positive and efficient steps to check the awful waste caused by this scourge. So, in February of this year a bill was passed setting aside $500,000 for a nation-wide application of serum to eradicate a disease that not only costs the farmers many millions annually, but also gives the people a greatly extended meat supply. This certainly brings government aid directly to the farmer and lends a helping hand where most needed.

The Smith-Lever Agricultural Extension Act.

The Smith-Lever Agricultural Extension Act is the most far-reaching and progressive measure ever enacted for the farmer. It takes the State Agricultural College, the State Experiment Station and the Federal Department of Agriculture direct to the farmer, the farmer's wife and into the farm home. It is the first Congressional act that considers the farmer's wives and daughters by providing funds for teaching home economics. This administration was the first one to grasp the tremendous truth that if all of the knowledge applicable and helpful to farming that has been worked out separately by the experimental stations, and by individual farmers upon the farm, and by the scientists in the United States Department of Agriculture could be gathered together and correlated and sent out to the farmer—not in written bulletins which they would not read—but by personal appeal and demonstration, that agriculture would be readjusted, that country life would have an attraction, a dignity and potential influence never enjoyed before. This act makes liberal appropriation for farm extension work. There is immediately available $10,000 for each State Agricultural College and by gradually increasing sums the new law appropriates $4,500,000 annually from the Federal treasury, conditioned upon the individual states providing an almost equal sum. This will make available after the year 1922 nearly $10,000,000. In the first nine years of the law's application, the Federal government will have given the forty-eight states more than $23,000,000, and the states themselves will have given more than $18,000,000. Thus in a nine year period now beginning, a grand total of nearly $42,000,000 will go into agricultural extension work. The co-operative feature of the bill, the states and Federal government working in close harmony, is a very valuable step forward. Efficiency is guaranteed for the wise expenditure of this enormous sum by providing that the work shall be carried on in such a manner as shall be mutually agreed upon by the Secretary of Agriculture and the State Colleges.

If explanation, or excuse, is needed for the outlay of such enormous sums, I would say that it is high time that such steps are being taken, if we are to obviate one of the greatest dangers that threaten our national existence. I refer to the deserted farm home, a constantly increasing tendency towards a system of farming by absenteeism, the growth of tenantry and the alarming drift of rural population towards the towns and cities. It is safe to assume that not more than 36 per cent of our population live upon the farms. This tendency will cease only when farm life becomes as attractive as urban life. There is an imperative need on the part of the State and Federal government to reshape rural methods and ideals. We must have better farming, better living, better and more education, which means better and more prosperous citizenship in rural communities. It required a Democratic administration for the Department of Agriculture to make this direct effort to get in touch with the home life of the farmer and to assist and improve his domestic conditions, thereby making the life of the farmer, his wife and family, easier and pleasanter. His work more enjoyable, his life more attractive—an actual sympathetic, helpful interest of the government in farm life. It is not encouraging to the farmer to feel that there is a party in power which sympathizes with agricultural pursuits, and is devoting its best efforts and energy towards the intellectual advancement of that great industry; so that it can no longer be said of the farmer that he is a "manu-facturer who buys his raw material at retail and sells his finished product at wholesale." It is, in my judgment, both an opportunity and a duty of every farmer in the land to cast his vote to endorse and sustain the Democratic administration in its great constructive and beneficent program of legislation, of which he is one of the chief beneficiaries.

What Has Been Done for Labor by the Democratic Administration.

In July, 1913, the President procured the enactment of the Industrial Employees' Arbitration Act. The possibilities for good of this wise piece of Democratic legislation are incalculable. It will soften and mollify the asperities heretofore existing between Capital and Labor, employer and employee. Each interest is assured of a fair and fair hearing of its grievances, and their disputes are submitted to and considered by wise and sympathetic arbitrators eagerly anxious to adjust all differences in a spirit of justice, tolerance, and fair play. Already numerous far-reaching issues between Capital and Labor have been settled, notably the adjustment of the pending strike between the railways and their employees in the Middle West, which, if not amicably arranged, would have meant civil war, thereby abundantly demonstrating the efficiency and wisdom of this measure. Many other industrial disputes which would have quickly assumed the proportions of industrial wars between employer and employee have been satisfactorily settled, and millions saved to the contending parties, and all of the inconveniences to the general public incident to such conditions averted.

The Eight Hour Bill.

The Eight Hour Bill extends the operations of the eight hour law both to work done for and by the government, thus putting the stamp of Federal approval upon a working day of eight hours' length.

The Clayton Bill.

The Clayton Bill treats, among other things, the relation of labor organizations to the anti-trust laws, and correcting the same so that labor can no longer be considered a commodity or property, and the regulation of the issuance of injunctions, and guaranteeing the right of trial by jury for alleged contempt committed out of the presence of the court.

The Department of Labor Bill.

This Democratic administration officially further recognized the dignity and importance of labor by creating the Department of Labor, with a Secretary who is a member of the President's Cabinet, thus dignifying labor and furnishing an opportunity of protection and advancement by having a representative in close touch with the President.

In addition to these few prominent measures, which I have mentioned, there are numerous others which this administration has enacted into law having for their purpose the protection of labor, demonstrating conclusively that the Democratic party is the friend of labor and that its platform declarations on this subject were not mere "vote catchers," but sincere convictions promptly adopted, as soon as it came into power, and the aid and relief so long denied by the Republican party cheerfully accorded to the great masses of laboring people.

The Federal Reserve Act.

The law known as the Federal Reserve Banking Act stands out as possibly the most vital importance to the country than even the passage of the downward revised tariff bill. Certainly nothing showed the prophetic vision, the unswerving and unconquerable courage of our great President more than the passage of this truly marvelous piece of legislation. It is perhaps best that the country should never know the almost insuperable difficulties placed in the way of this bill, from many apparently unrelated sources. We will now, at last, have an elastic currency, instead of having the wealth of the nation congested in one section. It will be spread over the remotest parts of our country, and be available for the legitimate business needs of every section of our vast domain. It is safe to say that this country will never again experience the appalling, and in many instances, ruinous effects of a nation-wide panic, with its desolation and paralysis to the business interests of the nation. In addition to this unspeakable blessing to the country at large, this act is especially helpful to agriculture. For the first time, National Banks are permitted to make loans on farm lands and to rediscount the farmers' notes based on staple agricultural products. This Democratic act places $500,000,000 available for the promotion of agriculture. Not the least helpful of the many administration measures, was the Government aid to the crop movement at a critical time. The Secretary of the Treasury placed $50,000,000 of Government funds in the hands of the country where most needed for crop moving and marketing purposes. Previously this money was in December, and that is a Rural Credit System, whereby the farmer can borrow money on his land at 5 per cent, and for a period of time running from five to thirty-five years. The amortization scientifically worked out to meet the needs of the borrowers.

Farm Marketing.

This administration has established a Bureau of Marketing and placed the study of distribution, of buying and selling in the hands of experts, so that the farm products may be standardized and prepared, transported and distributed to the consumer at the lowest possible cost and waste, thus substituting up-to-date business-like methods for the slipshod, wasteful plan so long pursued as heretofore.

Parcel Post.

The Parcel Post System has been extended so as to directly aid the farmer in shipping his produce to the city consumer, thus extending and creating new markets and making direct connections between producer and consumer, and not only increasing the farmer's profits, but also decreasing the cost of living.

in the Treasury as a reserve fund or deposited in the big banks, and is now loaned to the farmer upon reasonable rates upon good agricultural securities.

The Anti-Trust Measure.

The Trades Commission and Clayton bills recently enacted supplement and circumscribe the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and compel fair play and fair competition by both big and little business and place a ban on private monopoly.

The Issues Stated.

The electorate of Kentucky will be called upon at the ensuing November election to select two United States Senators, and a Representative in Congress from each of the eleven Congressional Districts in the State. The all important question and paramount issue is not so much the personnel of the candidates for these offices, as it is whether the people will give Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic Administration the endorsement of their endorsement by electing Democrats to assist and uphold the hands of the President in further carrying out his great program of constructive legislation so propitiously inaugurated, in behalf of the American People; or whether they will rebuke him by electing the Republican or Bull Moose candidates to criticize, to thwart, and to condemn, if possible, every Democratic measure, and thus turn back the hands of progress.

The Importance of Governor Beckham's Election.

And in this connection, I want to say that relatively the election of Governor Beckham is vastly more important to Kentucky and to the Democratic Party, than my own. If elected my term can only be until March, 1, 1915, while Governor Beckham's is for six years. He and Senator James will continue throughout the term of the President, and with the able and patriotic Democratic delegation representing Kentucky in the House of Representatives (and I want to say to you here that they are the equal of any delegation representing any state of the Union) will assist in carrying to completion the program of constructive legislation, as mapped out by our own President, embracing many more wise measures. In order to insure their passage he must needs have a safe working majority in both Houses of Congress.

Small President Wilson Be Indorsed.

This is not the time for party differences and dissensions. There must be a closing up of all the ranks all along the line and a solid front presented to the common enemy, Democracy, now in the ascendancy, must not be retarded in its onward march to complete victory. The issues in this campaign are simple and clear cut. Shall Woodrow Wilson, one of the cleanest, ablest and most humanely constructive Presidents that ever filled the office, be endorsed or condemned? Now that the people, the plain people, have at last come into their own, and have torn from the greedy grasp of monopolies and trusts the reins of government, will you vote to hand them back again? Are you willing to consign to their care and keeping this government, so that their reactionary trust-fostering, and trust-enriching policies shall be perpetuated, and the interests of the people ignored as they have been so long under Republican misrule?

Are you willing to undo, or to be instrumental in undoing what the people have so long waited for and voted for and prayed for, an administration honest enough, wise enough, and strong enough to aid and protect the humblest citizen in his struggle for life, liberty and happiness? An administration that is not dominated and controlled by the trusts?

You haven't the time to listen to, if I had the time to tell you in detail, of all the wise legislation which your great President, with the aid of a Democratic Congress, has been instrumental in placing upon the statute books in your behalf. These Democratic measures, carrying out the declarations of the Democratic platform, have been so fair and honest and wise, and fraught with such incalculable benefit and protection to the people of the nation as a whole, that the Republican Party has been disappointed, dazed and amazed. The strenuous and frantic efforts which the representatives of that party have put forth in attempting to secure some excuse to offer to the people to vote for them, is positively amusing, not to say ludicrous. They first began their old, old story, which they have sung so long, of commercial depression, predicting a paralysis of business, bankruptcy and ruin. Notwithstanding these calamity howlers, business moved along serenely, and no cloud presaging a panic was seen on the horizon, though they prayed long and loud for that consummation so devoutly wished for by them.

Watchful Waiting.

Then they criticized and ridiculed the President's policy of "watchful waiting," saying that he was making the American nation ridiculous and the laughing stock of the world; that he was a dreamer, an idealist, a mere school teacher. The jingoes blew their horns and beat their drums, and sounded the tom-toms, and cried out for a more vigorous and aggressive foreign policy; the Republican press joined in the hue and cry, until many weak souls quailed, but not so with the great Democratic Christian statesman in the White House, Woodrow Wilson. Serenely he pursued the even tenor of his ways, and the pitiless storm of criticism and abuse, with a firm hand on the helm of the ship of state. If he had wavered in his own view of the duty of a strong and powerful nation towards a weak and distracted one, he would be engaged in a bloody conflict.

It Always Does the Work.

"I like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy better than any other," writes R. E. Roberts, Homer City, Pa. "I have taken it off and on for years it has never failed to give the desired results." For sale by all dealers. 1-m.

the end of which could not be seen, with both continents plunged in war. My friends, for a moment dwell upon this thought—we would have lost the wonderful opportunity to demonstrate to the world the blessings of a true democratic government, administered for the good of humanity. Don't you know that we owe it to President Wilson that we are permitted now to have the inspiring vision of this great country towering sublimely above the clouds of war that encompass despairing nations and that the standard of democratic civilization has been placed upon a high and unassailable ground? We being the only first class civilized nation without entanglements that may lead to war, have a most important mission to fulfill. Europe looks to us now for food and the necessities of life.

When exhausted physically and financially with war, she will look to us for counsel and help in establishing peace. We will also inevitably reap the fruits of our great and sane and peaceful policy. All that is lost to Europe by this holocaust of war will be transferred to us, making us supreme in finance, industry and commerce. This country owes our President a deep debt of gratitude for the calmly, for careful and dignified way he has maintained the time-honored Jeffersonian rule—"Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none."

As I conclude, with the expression of my thanks for your patience, let me suggest to you a watchword for our contest: Woodrow Wilson, Democracy and Kentucky.

Lets make it unanimous for the Bond Issue.

Grumps' Opportunity.

Everything had gone wrong with Grumps that morning, and as he strode gloomily down the suburban road on his way to the station he was simply aching for an outlet for his temper. "Good morning," cheerfully called out the man from The Elms, overtaking him. "Good morning—good afternoon—good evening. Now we've made a day of it!" snarled Grumps, viciously.

Untaken Pills Did the Work.

A Worcester man told several of his friends that he had the best cure for pleurisy yet known. He said that a doctor had given him a box of pills and instructed him to take them at certain intervals, but he had repeatedly forgotten to take them. Yet he said that their effect was so powerful that they effected a cure by simply remaining in his pocket. He seriously offered to lend them to his friends to be used in a similar way if they were troubled.—Boston Globe.

Many Lives Saved.

Out of 2,500 persons who presented the free medical examination offered by one of the large insurance companies, 50 per cent were found to be more or less out of order, most of the derangements being in the heart, blood vessels and kidneys. Of those impaired, 44 per cent did not suspect it. In every case the family physician was informed of the trouble. At the end of four years the death rate in this group of 2,500 was only 50 per cent of that reasonably expected by the actuaries.

Slightly Mixed.

Here is a schoolroom story, told us by a Michigan health supervisor: "We were raising funds for paying for operations for removal of the adenoids and tonsils. The school children were much interested and canvassed the town selling stamps. At one home where a little boy called to sell stamps the lady asked: 'What are you going to do with the money?' The little boy quickly replied: 'It is to buy adenoids for little children that haven't got none.'—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A farm of 113 acres, five miles from Lancaster near Buckeye pike on good dirt road, stone house with eight rooms, new tenant house on place with three rooms, 2 good tobacco barns. Good land for hemp, tobacco and all grain. If interested call on, Dave Anderson, R. F. D. No. 3 Lancaster, Ky.

Literal Inquiry.

"Posterity will recognize me," said the self-conscious man. "Surely," replied Miss Ogden, "even don't intend to provide in your will for having yourself put through a process of mummification?"

His Appeal to Papa.

Little Webster had entered into an agreement with his father whereby he was to receive a penny every time he came when called, provided he covered the distance between his father's room and his. One day he was out on the lawn when called and did not start until he heard "three." Running as hard as he could, he shouted "Say three all the time. Say three all the time, papa."

Public Sale

Fayette County Farm

Having decided to quit farming, I will offer at Public Sale, on the premises, Wednesday, November 4th, 1914—10 o'clock
my farm containing

200 74-100 Acres on the DeLong Pike

seven miles east of Lexington, Ky., and one mile south of the Richmond pike. Land in good state of cultivation. 75 acres in wheat, 7 acres in rye, balance in grass. Good tobacco land. This is one of the best wheat farms in Fayette county, never failing water in every field. The improvements consist of a two-story six room metal roof frame dwelling, newly painted, one new four-room metal roof cottage, large tobacco barn, two stock barns, cabin and all out-buildings, also twenty hog houses, good apple orchard. I will also sell at the same time and place one six-year-old percheron mare in foal to jack, one ten-year-old percheron mare in foal to jack, one seven-year-old percheron mare in foal to draft horse. These mares are extra good workers and regular breeders. One twelve-year-old mare, one weanling and one yearling filly colt and one yearling gelding out of the above percheron mares, and by W. C. Goodloe's imported grey draft horse; 4 cows, 2 calves, 22 brood sows, some with
